III. PROFESSIONAL MATTERS

1. Professional Development.—(a) The need for educating the public about the true role of the profession in the development of the country's economy has been engaging the attention of the Council for some time past. Certain steps have been taken in this direction and booklets containing information about the variety of services which a Chartered Accountant can render have been issued.

(b) In addition, steps are being taken to bring out a booklet "Why don't you get your accounts audited?" for circulation amongst all the partnership firms and other organisations whose accounts are not statutorily required to be audited. The Council has also made representations to the appropriate authorities to provide for compulsory audit of partnership firms having a turnover of Rs. 5 lakhs and also to associate professional firms with the work of accounts scrutiny in taxation and company law departments. These matters are under the active consideration of the respective departments of the Government and are expected to yield the desired results in course of time. These and other efforts are likely to improve the opportunities of work for the junior members of the profession.

(c) The Council, in its efforts to further increase the professional opportunities and to open new avenues of employment for the members, has undertaken to prepare a Note to propagate the usefulness of internal auditing and to impress upon the industrial houses to utilise the specialised services of Chartered Accountants to act as internal auditors. It is also proposed to organise Seminars/Courses etc. to impart higher training to members in the various techniques of internal auditing and to keep them abreast of the various developments taking place in this field.

(d) For strengthening the knowledge of members in the field of auditing, and for bringing their knowledge up-to-date on the latest developments in auditing techniques the Council has initiated action for the preparation of industrywise technical guides to audit for some of the major industries.

(e) The Council is actively considering ways and means of providing guidelines to the members and the question of permitting them to associate with them members of other disciplines for rendering the entire range of Management Consultancy Services. The legal, ethical and other related issues involved in our members seeking to associate members of other disciplines for rendering Management Consultancy Services as well as the form of organisation through which such arrangements could be permitted, are being examined. The Council is also examining the ethical requirements relating to publicity by members of the Institute.

(f) A study of the organisation of the offices of Chartered Accountants is being conducted with the object of making recommendations in respect of maintenance of office records, adoption of office manuals, equipment etc. In this connection, a questionnaire to elicit information from members about their offices was published in the Journal and also issued to a few selected firms of Chartered Accountants. The information thus collected is being processed and it is expected that the work on this project will get completed shortly.

(g) The various forms of audit reports and certificates which chartered accountants are required to sign and certify during the course of their professional work are being scrutinised. It is proposed to approach the concerned authorities for such revision or modification of the form of reports and certificates, as may be necessary to remove any attendant difficulties. The work on this project is progressing satisfactorily and it is expected that specimen forms for different types of audit reports/certificates would soon be ready and recommended for adoption to the concerned authorities.

(h) The Council has accepted in principle that the provisions of the Chartered Accountants Act should be amended appropriately permitting mutual references and assistance in their professional work between members of the Institute and members of such other learned professions (both within and without India) as might be recognised by the Council by resolution in this behalf.

The draft amendments in the Chartered Accountants Act in this behalf are under consideration.

(i) The Council at its meeting held in September 1969 decided that the Hindi Committee, which used to be an independent committee, should be made a Sub-Committee of the Professional Development Committee.

The sub-Committee has finalised translation in Hindi of Schedule VI to the Companies Act, including the Form of Balance Sheet and Profit and Loss Account. The translation in Hindi of the Form of Auditor's Report under the Companies Act has also been finalised.

Currently, the Sub-Committee is finalising the translation in Hindi of the Form of Balance Sheet and Profit and Loss Account prescribed for Banking and Insurance Companies.

The Committee is also engaged in finalising the translation into Hindi of 4,500 words (in addition to the list of 700 already finalised) connected with accounting and auditing, prepared in collaboration with the Office of the Comptroller and Auditor General.

(c) A proposal to set up an Accounting Principles Board has been under consideration of the Council for sometime. The underlying idea was that as the composition of the Committees constituted by the Council undergoes changes at specific intervals due to elections, there was need for constituting a body with a greater degree of academic independence and longevity, to ensure continuity in its deliberations. It was suggested that the main functions of the Board should be to evolve sound accounting principles and practices.

After examining the legal aspects of the proposal and the reasons for which the Board had been proposed to be set up, the Council has decided that the objectives, namely, longevity of tenure and continuity in deliberations, can be achieved by a reorientation, both of the composition and mode of working of the existing Research Committee. It has been decided to constitute the Research Committee for a duration of 3 years to be co-terminus with the life of the Council and to permit it to co-opt members to the full extent provided in Section 17(2) of the Chartered Accountants Act, i.e., two thirds of the members of the Committee. The Council has also decided that the co-opted members could be drawn from members of the Institute engaged in different fields of activities, e.g. in the profession with industry, trade and commerce, educational institutions etc. and the benefit of their varied experience could be availed of by the Research Committee in its deliberations.

The Council has further decided that a panel of experts be drawn up and the benefit of their advice could be ensured for dealing with specific projects, and in addition, sub-Committees of the Research Committee should be appointed in accordance with the provisions of the Chartered Accountants Regulations, for associating experts on specific tasks.

The Council has further decided that the Research Committee could broaden its functions into two categories, namely one dealing with pure research in the field of formulating accounting principles, and the other of continuing to deal with applied research, including the enunciation of generally accepted auditing standards and practice.

VII. MEMBERS

1. Membership Changes.—The number of members of the Institute on 31st 1970 was 10183—an increase of 815 since 31st March, 1969. During the year 306

Associates were enrolled as Fellows as compared to 228 in the previous year. A table showing the number of members on 31st March, 1970 compared to the members on 31st March, 1969 is given as Appendix III.

2. List of Members.—The list of members as on 1st April, 1969 has been published and copies have been supplied to the members who asked for the same.

The postal zone numbers have also been published in the list after the addresses, wherever the information was available.

3. Disciplinary Action.—Details of the findings of the Council in the cases referred by it for enquiry to the Disciplinary Committee under Regulation 11(8)(i), since the last Report are given in Appendix IV.

4. Levy of Deposit with Complaints.—To discourage frivolous and baseless complaints against our members, a request was made to the Government of India to provide that every complaint should be accompanied by a deposit of Rs. 50 which would be refunded to the complainant if the Council comes to the decision that there is a prima facie case against the member concerned, but forfeited if the Council comes to the conclusion that there is no prima facie case.

The Central Government have agreed in principle to our suggestion with the condition that the rule shall not apply to complaints made by or on behalf of Central Government or State Governments. The draft amendment to give effect to the proposal was notified for comments and the same is now awaiting approval of the Central Government.

5. Notes for Guidance of Members—

(a) Lien on documents.—The following note was published for the information and guidance of members in "The Chartered Accountant" for April 1969:—

"The Council has considered the question whether a Chartered Accountant has a particular lien upon documents belonging to his client which are in his possession until the fees are paid for any work done in relation to those documents and whether he can claim lien upon papers received from the Income-tax authorities along with notice of demand etc. belonging to his client in his capacity as representative for the reason that he has not been paid the fees due to him.

The legal advice obtained by the Council in this matter is that although a Chartered Accountant does not have a general lien in express terms he would have a particular lien and can retain all books and papers in relation to which he has performed services until such time that his remuneration has been paid. This of course, would be subject to any other special conditions such as professional misconduct, provisions of the Companies Act etc. In Income-tax matters, a Chartered Accountant acting as his client's agent would have a particular lien in respect of books and papers used in relation to representing the client in his capacity as an agent until the amount due to him for services rendered has been paid or accounted for to him."

(b) Replying to enquiries to tender for professional work.—This note was republished in "The Chartered Accountant" for May 1969.

(c) Panel of Auditors.—A note on inclusion of names in the Panel of Auditors maintained by the Comptroller and Auditor General of India as well as information relating to the allotment of audit in respect of public sector undertakings was published in "The Chartered Accountant" for September 1969. It has been notified therein that as the existence of panel maintained by the Comptroller and Auditor General is made known the members will be free to write to him forwarding details about the structure of their organisation and such other particulars as desired by him with a request for placing them on the panel.

(d) Telephone Directory.—The following note was published in "The Chartered Accountant" for November 1969.

"The Council has already made it known through the Code of Conduct that it is not considered for a Chartered Accountant to have entries in bold type and/or under a classified list in the Telephone Directory, either by making a special request, or by means of an additional payment.

However, where the Telephone authorities include in the Telephone Directory for their area a separate Section in which names of subscribers falling within particular group classifications are published, whether with or without additional payment, members are free to have their names, or the names of their firms, included in such separate Section. In doing so care should be taken to enquire that the Group heading is restricted to Chartered Accountants and the names does not appear in bold type, or in a manner giving the impression of an advertisement, both of which continue to be prohibited and may render the member liable for disciplinary action."

(e) Advertisements in Press.—The following note was published in "The Chartered Accountant" for November 1969.

"Instances have come to the notice of the Council of advertisements inserted in News papers by persons who do not mention their names but claim to be Chartered Accountants, seeking 'part-time engagements as Auditors of Tax Advisers' or 'offering their services for carrying out accountancy, sales-tax and income-tax work'."

The Council reiterates that the insertion by members of such advertisements even without disclosure of the identity, is prohibited. Attention of members is invited to the following extract from the "Code of Conduct" published by the Institute [Third edition—February 1969, page 17—Clause (6)]:—

"Members should not advertise or circularise in a manner which could be interpreted as offering to undertake professional work but a member may advertise in the public press (other than the accountancy press) changes in partnerships or dissolution of the firm".

As regards the Journal of the Institute, classified advertisements (not display advertisements) by members in practice, which do not amount to soliciting or canvassing, but which are merely intended to give information, would, however be permitted to be published therein."

(f) Descriptive Trade Names.—The following note was published in "The Chartered Accountant" for November 1969.

"The Council is of the opinion that the members should restrict the use of trade/firm names to proper names and not adopt anything which might smack of publicity or might contravene the various provisions contained in the Schedule to the Chartered Accountants Act, 1949."

IX. ARTICLED AND AUDIT CLERKS

1. Special Committee on Education and Training.—As has already been reported, the Council had appointed a Special Committee to enquire into issues concerning the educational and examination system for membership, as also the role of the institute in providing opportunities for continuing self-education to members and make suitable recommendations. The Committee had issued two sets of questionnaire for eliciting views on the various issues involved from members and students. The Committee had also meetings with heads of important public sector units, leaders in industry, leading educationists, representatives of Chambers of Commerce, senior members in the profession, students, etc., for eliciting their views. The Committee has submitted its report to Council which has been accepted. Early steps will be taken to implement the recommendations of the Committee.

2. Fresh Enrolments.—The number of articled and audit clerks registered the year, compared to those registered in the previous year, are given below:

	1969-70	1968-69

Audit clerks	952	1028
Total :	3588	4237

3. Maintenance of list of vacancies of Articled Clerks.—The Council has prepared a list of vacancies of articled clerks available with the members of the Institute all over the country. This list contains the names of the members of the Institute with their full postal addresses town-wise and regionwise and also the date or dates on which the vacancies would arise. Students desirous of taking up the course may refer to the list at the headquarters of the Institute at Delhi and also at the offices of the Regional Councils at Bombay, Madras, Calcutta, Kanpur and also at branch offices of the Regional Councils at Ahmedabad, Bangalore, Baroda, Coimbatore, Ernakulam, Hyderabad, Madurai, Poona, Nagpur and Jaipur.

4. Permission for other courses.—“Working Hours of Employer” clarified.—Articled and audit clerks are being permitted to attend classes for other courses provided the classes are not held between 10-30 A.M. and 5.00 P.M. and also provided that this is outside the normal working hours of their employers. The Council has decided that the “normal working hours” of the employer, while considering granting permission to articled/audit clerks for study for other courses, should be interpreted to mean the normal working hours prescribed by the employer for all his articled clerks which need not necessarily be the same as the working hours for his establishment in general.

5. Students' Associations and their branches.—The Students' Associations and their Branches were very active during the year. They held conferences, lecture meetings, symposia, etc., and arranged industrial visits and picnics.

6. Coaching Board.—(a) During the year under report, 2915 students were enrolled for the Intermediate Course as against 3,016 in the previous year. Preliminary steps were taken during the year for organising Study Groups in Management Accounting and Taxation. The object of the Survey Groups is to acquaint students with the practical aspect of the two subjects. These study groups would be for the benefit of the students who are above the average.

Steps were also initiated during the year for organising oral classes in English at centres where the medium of instruction of the University is other than English.

(c) Students Libraries.—During the year a students' library was establishing at Tiruchi, Ernakulam and Trivandrum, thus bringing the total number of such libraries to 17 excluding those at Regional headquarters. - (2) Incentives for contribution to students' page in the Institute's Journal;

The Council in its meeting held on 14th March, 1970 also decided to place on record its appreciation of "the yeoman service rendered to the Institute by Shri B. R. Malhotra over a period of nearly 15 years during which he served as Director of Studies, and also, for some time after the death of Shri Srinivasan officiated as the Secretary of the Institute. The Council appreciated that the success of the coaching scheme of the Institute, which was started under Shri Malhotra in the year 1956, was largely due to his tireless efforts".

FINDING OF THE COUNCIL

Making a false statement knowing it to be false.

A member was found guilty of other misconduct in terms of Section 21 of the Chartered Accountants Act for having stated in his application for employment as an Accountant that he had earlier worked for a period of three years as an Accountant in another concern. This statement was proved to be false on enquiry. The Council had recommended to the High Court removal of his name for a period of three months. The High Court accepted both the finding and the recommendation of the Council.

Soliciting professional work by means of letters.

A member was found guilty of a repetition of professional misconduct under clause (6) of Part I of the First Schedule to the Chartered Accountants Act for having written a letter to the Co-operative Department asking for allotment of audit work to his firm. The respondent had thereby repeated the misconduct for which he had earlier been administered a reprimand. In terms of Section 21(4) of the Act, the Council removed his name from the Register of Members for a period of two years.
